MOVED

Since we have moved to Rock of Ages in McMinnville, Oregon a few weeks ago, we see the world from a slightly different perspective. We are perched on a hill looking down on roof tops, a pond, trees, a farmers field and orchards, cars driving by on Hwy 18 heading out to the coast. Then more trees, more hills, then finally way off are the mountains. We are looking east and have the same view as our home in Woodburn, only more of it. Birds fly by at our eye level and the deer eat our apples. It is pretty quiet and serene.

Just below us are houses and buildings filled with life. We have met Lolita, Daisy Jo, Simon, Andrew, Leo, Susan, Julie, Carla and many others. We keep meeting new friends every day.

Within this little village we have a beautiful chapel, an activities room, a gym and a library. Yes, another library, but it looked a bit unkept and lonely. Now a part of my volunteer job is to keep it looking attractive and welcoming.

One book that I found here and have started reading is, "Grandma's Stories" by Helen Grace Kaltenbach Headings who used to attend Hopewell Church just down the road from Zion. These stories begin with her parents life and continues on from her childhood and goes to her and Maynard's 50th wedding anniversary. It is a book of a life well lived.

A book is a friend too. Come visit your library and stop in for a "Hello" when you come by this way.
